The Mark Twain Library and the Redding League of Women Voters are proud to present the fifth installment of our series “Conversations: Truth, Myth & Democracy.” In this program, two experts on conflict resolution will be in a virtual discussion to offer insights into how deeply divided societies can, and in fact do, change. Dr. Peter Coleman is a Professor of Psychology and Education at Columbia University who studies polarizing, intractable conflict and sustainable peace and has recently published a book, The Way Out: How to Overcome Toxic Polarization which addresses this exact topic. Dr. R. Averell Manes is a Professor Emeritus of Political Science, Conflict Resolution and Peace Studies at Western Connecticut State University (WCSU).

Wednesday, March 9, 7:30 pm – 9:00 pm
